National Apprenticeship Service

Overview

Customer Service occupations are a growing sector. With significant growth in the 1980s and 1990s by around a quarter of a million jobs it is still an area of growth¹ by 2005 82% of jobs were in this area.²

With improving customer service seen as a priority for employers of all types and sizes³ nearly six in 10 organisations (59%) plan to invest more on customer service in the coming year than they did in the past 12 months.⁴ The benefits of the Customer Service Apprenticeship relate to the transferable nature of the qualification meaning once qualified you can switch between employers or sectors to allow further and higher progression where there are opportunities.

What is an Apprenticeship

An Apprenticeship is a mix of real work and learning. Apprentices earn a wage and get experience whilst working towards a number of qualifications. An Apprenticeship follows a Level 2 programme and can lead onto an Advanced Apprenticeship which is a Level 3 programme.

Example Job Roles as an Apprentice

Customer Service Apprenticeships can be found in all sectors.

Apprenticeship Framework

There are a number of elements to each Apprenticeship and this is called the framework. Each Apprenticeship framework has three main strands:

- competence based element
- technical element
- skills element

The three strands are sometimes accompanied by additional qualifications to give the most relevant skills and knowledge required for the job.
